VIRTUE'S REWARDS.

The baby that's good lies all day long, Toying away with his toes, And no one fingers to croon him a song Or lessen his little woes.

The baby that's good neglected lies Where the sun shines into his blinking eyes And the flies trot over his nose.

The baby that squalls all day, all night, Is "mother's sweet, precious pet," She fondles and rocks him with all her might, And leaves everything else next.

The baby that only knows how to squall Is dandled and pampered and always get all The care that there is to get.

The man who quietly toils away, With never a plaint nor sigh, Just doing his best day after day, With hopes of the by and by.

Who merely accepts what the world accords, Receives but few of the sweet rewards For which the successful try.

The man who demands the best there is, Who asks—as the poorest may— Though others have stronger claims than his, Takes the fairest gifts away.

The man who asks may have little worth But he gets the best there is on earth For saying his little say.
